

Evolved's RadWeb® and Managed Services Offering Selected by X-Ray Services

Press Release | Montréal, (Québec, Canada) | August 16, 2006

Evolved Digital Systems Inc. (TSX: EVD) announced today that it has been selected as the digital imaging service provider for Nashville, Tennessee based company X-Ray Services, Inc. This 5-year agreement attests to Evolved's continued advancement in the healthcare imaging market.

X-Ray Services will use Evolved's Radiology Information System (RIS), RadWeb®, in addition to their Managed Services offering which includes Evolved's Brentwood, Tennessee-based Disaster Recovery Center and their Image Archive Solution. X-Ray Services plans to enhance their current offering by adding two new mobile units equipped with Computed Radiography (CR) systems and Wi-Fi communication. Evolved's offering will grant these mobile imaging centers real-time access to patient data and images from any remote location.

"We were familiar with Evolved's Managed Services through our association with another party. The flexibility of their Managed Services and their 24/7 Customer Support are the reasons we have decided to contract directly with Evolved," stated Joel Herring, President of X-Ray Services, Inc.. "During our initial planning processes in 1999, we identified two main components of our business model: mobile X-ray, and the application of digital technology to the mobile setting. Together with our Radiologist, we committed to delivering the best mobile imaging services available outside of a major health care facility. For the past seven years, we have done just that; successfully providing mobile diagnostic imaging services to long-term care and correctional facilities through the Southeast. Partnering directly with Evolved will allow us to expand our current offering over the next 5 years, and we will rely heavily on Evolved to aid us in our aggressive business growth over these years."

"We're excited that X-Ray Services has recognized the strengths of Evolved's Managed Services, and are pleased to partner with them as they work to grow their practice," states Bill Greer, Executive Vice President of Evolved. "X-Ray Service's model demonstrates the flexibility and reliability that the Evolved Managed Services approach brings to hospital and imaging center customers. X-Ray Services will be able to schedule and track patients and their images from initial registration through final clinical report distribution, and to access images and patient information anytime and anywhere they have access to the web. These resources will speed up their current processes, increase their throughput, and allow them to provide better service to their patients and clients."
